Nikki McKay studied art and design at Derby College of Art, Bristol Old Vic Theatre school and at Trent university. Born to the Cornish artist Jas R Richardson and the dancer Jean Barradell she trained in dance from the age of three.

She lives and works in Newark-on-Trent, Nottinghamshire, UK - receiving commissions for her colourful paintings which are based on large ladies dancing. Exhibitions include Gatehouse Cannes, Millgate museum Newark and Montecatini Italy.

Her figurative work is inspired by the notion and joy of the Dance, more recently experimenting with wax, and the theme of trees.
